As was to be expected with the higher prize pool, there was plenty of great squash during the tournament. The final saw Australian legend and number 1 seed, Rachael Grinham up against former world number 5 Low Wee Wern from Malaysia returning from 20 months off due to injury. All of Rachael Grinham's skills were on display but they weren't enough to stop a silky and athletic Low Wee Wern from winning in straight sets.

DEVONPORT OPEN 2018 RESULTS

This year saw a changing of the guard in Tasmania with the Final being contested by two rising stars in their last years as Juniors, Jamie Pattison and Toby Moore. Jamie started strong, focused and relentless and, despite Toby's spectacularly athletic saves, managed to win the first two sets. A dramatic shift in momentum, with an even more athletic effort from Toby if that were possible, saw the score levelled at two-all. Toby started the deciding set in the same manner but Jamie dug deep and found the form of the first two sets, holding on to record his first title win - a fitting final to a great tournament.

In the play-off for third, Rod Harker defeated Paul Brewtnall.

Other results were:
